*To my bride
Galit*

My Rebbe, Reb Shlomo Carlebach traveled throughout the world inspiring, and uplifting everyone he met with his songs, chassidic teachings and stories. He put life into Judaism, into the prayers, into doing the mitzvot. Today there are minyans all over the world where the prayers are sung to Reb Shlomo's melodies. But some of the highest moments with Reb Shlomo were at his weddings. When he would preform a wedding, he would spend hours teaching what a Jewish wedding really is. He changed the wedding from a social gathering into the highest spiritual experience. Everyone would listen spellbound to his chassidic parables, songs, and teachings which made them laugh, cry and sing at the same time.

Thank G-d many of Reb Shlomo's weddings were recorded. This booklet has a few of his unique insights to the holiness of love, weddings and marriage.

This booklet is being published for all the young couples of the world who want their wedding to have a taste of paradise. I remember that the first thing Reb Shlomo's young chassidim thought when we heard that Reb Shlomo passed away was. "Who is going to do our wedding?" I know that Reb Shlomo will be at all of our weddings, but it is up to us bring his teachings, songs, and stories to life.

With G-ds help, every wedding will soon be a "Shlomo wedding".
